“ I love you Brian. I loved every letter we were able to exchange. From every song we talked about to sharing pieces of art. Gosh, Brian was just so creative, and his art will always inspire me, will always carry on with me, reminding me how much he always wanted me to keep drawing. Never give up. He was so kindhearted, so intelligent. I remember when he first told me he was getting education, I was so proud and rooted for him every day! He gave me the most beautiful piece of one of my favorite bands Nightwish. A gorgeous, shaded moon over a moonlit ocean, with the words Nightwish written in the most fanciest letters, like it was engraved upon ribbons floating in the sky. He loved to jam out to the most heaviest rock music. It was seriously amazing, hearing all the bands he was into.

I'll never forget the time he sent me a dreamcatcher. I loved that dream catcher so much. It meant so much to me, it was just such a thoughtful gift.

I don't quite remember if I wrote to him about my nightmares growing up, but I remember I hung it over my bed at night, to scare away the nightmares.

I'll never forget his kindness, his voice. Even though we are cousins, I felt like he was an amazing friend too. Just so full of joy, and tried his best at everything.

So strong. Loved his family. Appreciated his family so much.

Thank you for being my friend. Thank you for always reminding me to be strong and to keep drawing.

I will always carry you with me in my heart. In my art. And will never forget, my cool cousin Bryan.

I love you ❤️

“ Today I baked a pie for my grandson. I was reminded of the many fun times we enjoyed together with Adam, Jeremy and Heather. I thought of the wonderful letters we exchanged. Bryan was a good writer and artist. He knew how to tell a good story to where you felt as if you were right there with him. I was his "fun" grandma, as he liked to say; it always made me feel special; he had that way about him.

Bryan did not always make the best decisions but he was a good man, who loved God. He had the courage of a lion and the heart of a lamb.

Bryan had charm, perseverance and most of all his forgiveness for others.

Bryan gave me an unexpected gift, a great-grandson, Salem; I have been blessed.

May God bless all those who knew Bryan and loved him.

I am not saying goodbye to my grandson, today. He is with me now and always- a part of my heart.

Will see you again.

*Love you,
Mamaw*

“ Bryan, such the sweetie when not being a little shit 🤔 I love you, darlin'. I loved how, when your mind was calm, you could create beautiful art. I loved how you were proud to say that your mom was your best friend. I loved your intelligence and interest in the things that we can't touch, see or feel. I loved how you wanted to be a hard worker like your dad. I loved how you said that your dad doesn't get the respect he deserves from the family-- you were so right, Bryan. You saw him bust his ass for them, not getting paid his worth-- if being paid at all. I loved that, from a young age, how perceptive you were and I loved how you saw the unfairness in it all; it was family, after all...family mattered to you, Bryan, because that's how you were raised. You were a good son, one of "Mike's kids", just like me and your dad were one of "Augie's kids", to be proud of, my sweetie Bryan-- to be proud of. We'll miss you-- never forget ❤️

“ My heart is broken for my brother Michael and my sister-in-law Cynthia. But as for Brian he always had the creative thought and an artistic style that made him who he was the man that he is and the memories that we will always have of him. Always remember your Uncle Paul loves you. Rest in peace nephew

“ Bryan was my first true friend when I moved back to Dade city in high school. We were inseparable. I have so many amazing memories with him. We did everything together. He even lived with me and my family for awhile. We've been through good and bad times together. This has been a major shock for me and everyone I'm sure. Tears don't do the loss justice. A piece of my heart went with him. To the Roque family. I love you guys. I wish there was more I could say to help the pain. He will live forever in all of our memories.

“ When I first met Bryan we were complete enemies, we worked things out to where we were okay with each other. One night I was at the movie theater and some guys from another school started some trouble with me and my buddy. We were out numbered. Bryan was out with his group of friends and saw these guys messing with us and he came up and had our backs. Invited us to sit with his friends in the theater, and left with us that night. Things could've gone terribly bad if he didn't step in that night. I'll always appreciate his friendship, it's a shame we drifted apart over the years. My condolences to his family.
