“ Although I've only known this amazing woman for a few short years - the impact that she has had on me will last a lifetime. Mema was the epitome of southern hospitality. She made everyone feel welcome and loved from the moment you met her. I will never forget all the busch lattes we drank, fried crappie & 15 bean soup we ate, and all of the laughter and conversations we would share. Im going to miss my “girlfriend”, but I'm also very grateful for the moments we enjoyed together that I can carry in my heart forever.

“ 1994, Carolyn welcomed me into her heart and home. Over the years I began to understand the sparkle in my father's eyes whenever I saw them together. Carolyn brought a special kind of love and acceptance to every life she touched. My greatest memory with Carolyn is just sitting together talking, there didn't need to be anything more. In those moments what was unspoken was a love and understanding that would warm any heart and make you long for more time together.

I envy those who had more time with her but remain thankful she was part of mine and my families life.

“ I just want to say I have countless memories of this amazing woman. So many stories we use to tell! My favorite memory is definitely the lake days, wether it be at Pomm De Terre where I was first introduced to the lake life, or the lake of the Ozarks. We had a ball fishing, cooking, and enjoying ice cold Bush Light. Me and my Mema could sit on the back deck or around the fire after a long day on the lake and go beer for beer. Full of laughs and love. She could cook up the best damn crappie You could have. We started carrying on a tradition during my birthday weekend. She loved cooking me 15 bean soup that I will never be able to conquer as good as she did. No matter how long we were apart, when we saw eachother our eyes lit up and instant hugs and kisses. She was the ideal Grandmother that everyone loved including all my buddies i would bring to meet her. We could get rowdy but she was right there with us. You could not piss this woman off. She was the life of the party. Even when she lost her voice at times. She would still be talking. I learned how to read lips real quick because anything she had to say I wanted to make sure I knew what she said. Everyone was boyfriend or hey girlfriend! Everyone could not get enough of the joy she brought to the atmosphere. She made you feel at home regardless where you were at. She knew how to spoil me that is forsure! When we were together you could tell we adored eachother. When I met my future wife and introduced them they clicked right off the bat, probably because they have alot of similarities! She said after the first night of meeting mema, “ You’re mema adores you and loves you so much”. I said yeah im pretty lucky to have that woman in my life. I remember going to drink green beer on mema and papa’s anniversary at the beach before I was 21. Hahaha. Even though I have never visited North Carolina, this woman molded me into a die hard NC Tarheels fan and will always be! I loved watching any sports with her and papa. They heh brought me to every home chiefs game when I was a child. Im so grateful for that. Spending that time with them while they taught me the game of football and now I have a unconditional love for the chiefs. This woman had a huge part in my childhood and growing up. I dont know how we would have done it without her! As I could keep going and going on the memories I cherish with you mema. I will leave some to myself and carry them forever. You will truly be missed! I will carry on every little tradition we had. I will make sure your great grandson will know h who the best Mema was! I love and will miss you for eternity! Cheers to a cold busch latte Mema! You were the best, until we meet again! ❤️

“ Carolyn will be missed. I was lucky to have had met her 23 years ago she made me feel welcome and went out of her way to do so. I have lots of good memories. Spending time at the lake and helping her cook her famous fried crappie. She would cook and I would salt and taste test and she hummed away. I will never forget her silly little hum. The latest was last week when she was my copilot showing around all the new parts of Florida. she was so excited tapping he hand the hole time full of excitement. She knew I wanted to have a drink on bay and our last day there she made it happen.i will never forget the little moments we shared.
