“Mr. Charles was my chicken mentor, and he was so proud of the chicken mama I've become. I used to send him pictures and videos of my flock—many of them chickens he gave me, or the offspring of those he did.

He always said I had the happiest chickens. He loved hearing them chatter and would smile every time.

I'm really going to miss my buddy. I've missed our walks through his yard, the stories he'd tell, the plants and chickens he'd send me home with, and the way he always made time for my questions.

I don't think I'll ever get used to not being able to call him for advice. But I feel so lucky to have known him—and to have been loved by him. He never let me forget that he was proud of me! Rest in peace Mr Charles. I love and miss you.
