“ I miss you so much my brother. Moms ok we are in the new house and feel your blessings from above every day. I treasure our childhood memories like they're the most precious of stones because they are. I so wish you were here but I do feel somehow you are. I found your favorite suspenders today. I'll keep them safe until we meet again. Love you so much little brother. You made me a better person on so many ways.

“ My brother my best friend. We survived our childhood together through all those 60s playgrounds to riding our bikes, taking off on adventures picking wild berries, building tree houses and building dreams. We would spin the globe and stop it at a country and visit it with our imagination. If not for you I'd never have become the writer I became. Although not famous, I've written our ideas in my own fan fiction and they were ahead of their time! You were the most amazing person in my entire world. You always had my back and proudly called me your sister. We played with trains so much we got dizzy! You had such a gift that you warmed the hearts of all around you with just your smile and a laugh with a twinkle in your eyes. You saved me from myself when we were kids. I'd never be who I am today without you my dear brother. I'm sitting here going through your things. All these lighthouses. Just beautiful. We all are going to have one and forever you will light up our lives. I imagine you are standing in one looking over the sea, smiling and waiting for us to join you one day. I love you forever and a day and better than elephants. We used to say that all the time. Rip my dear sweet brother

“ I will always remember how he lit up when I told one of my corny old jokes. He had a great sense of humor and I always wished we could go on an adventure together. I wish I could have known more about the world as he saw it, he was a genuinely good person. I hope he is driving a train now, if there is something after this life, through an endless countryside and beautiful weather. I only wish I could've spent more time with him.

“ I will miss my uncle very much, but I will never forget him. I didn't have the greatest childhood, but Derek was a very rare and good memory from it.

“ May God bless and comfort Derrick's family! I met him and his mom a few years ago at his nephew Josh's house for Thanksgiving dinner. Derrick wasn't a fan of the Blues Jam Josh & I had after dinner, but he still seemed like a really nice guy overall.
