“ Through the rain we still shine with a little help from the divine, our Lord and Savior who is there when life gets to hard to bare. Though life has been messy and has it's ups and downs, don't worry dear, God is around. So when you think of John know he is there with Christ at his side showing he still cares. It might be a touch or the wind that moves by but know that John will always be by your side. These are my words to my mom but if it resignates with you then I'm happy to have written them so you'll never be blue.

Love you mom 💕💕

“ John May was a faithful and truthful man, a genuine human being and not an imposter or pretender. He faced life head on, not recklessly, but used his God given skills to the very best of his ability...and then some. His vision was clear and keen, he recognized true godly character. John loved righteousness and hated wickedness. He was not intimidated by rank or titles. His respect for others was dependent on their character, not their rank or titles or positions in life. John saw no need to feed his ego because he had no ego. His actions and work ethic, was his sermon and his preaching, driven by his desire to serve and protect others, especially his wife and family. Kind hearted and tough as nails, never intimidated yet humble. A man of steel and velvet. John was light hearted and laughed freely. Our time with John May was short, but it seemed like a lifetime. Therefore it was a great pleasure that we had the priceless opportunity to spend time with and know John May.
