“ From day one you treated me as if I were your own. Every pleasant childhood memory I have, you were a part of. Its crazy the things that we realize when we grow up - In our home You were relied upon as the sole provider of all things that a family of 5 may need. We weren't your responsibility to raise but you MADE us your priority anyway & you were great at it! You were our provider & protector. You were our friend as much as you were our dad. It was you who installed our morals & values & you who refuse to let us down. You stood up for us when needed & you corrected us when there was a lesson to be learned. We made trips to collect sand dollars in the middle of the night. You went against gainst our mothers rules by keeping us out of bed on a school night so that we could lay in the yard on a blanket watching meteor showers. You allowed us to have all sorts of pets that the other kids didn't have. FROG GIGGING! The only man I've ever known to drag 3 little girls plus a neibor kid out to the swamp to frog gig & never even seemed frustrated or annoyed by us. You once gave to us for desert a bowl of Ice cream that was on fire! I mean come on dad the ice cream had flames! You always seem to stay so calm no matter the issue, whatever emergency we seem to have & no matter how panicked we were when we came to you, you kept things calm & offered a simple solution.

Throughout my childhood I cant recall any person who could hold a candle to you & now as an adult i find myself very lucky to have had such a beautiful person by my side.

I for one will miss you and all you quirky ways & will forever be greatful for the man who chose to be my dad. Your work here is done dad - rest easy. ♥♥♥
