Seems odd since October 2012 our final separation in person that day in court of your choosing. I'll never understand the jealous hearts full of hatred towards me who's loved you one and all 100% only to be destroyed as still today!

Your no longer in the flesh yet they are. Sad thing is a mother is not to teach nor allow their children to turn on one another as you most certainly did. Days before your death you asked for my forgiveness and I excepted , however only a few miles apart they let us never have that reunion one last final time. For that I've now buried them all forever! My hurt will not allow this ulgy journey even if it means I walk alone. How dare you all taint my name with your lies having me look bad time and time again in courts ect..... I damn all to HELL rightfully so understand it's my right!
