The earthly home, where my dear friend Ponder lived for many years, was built by a local carpenter's hand, my father, Curtis Herring. Ponder loved his home and he loved his music. Each time I'd see Ponder, most likely at monthly singings, he and I talked a lot about music and a little about dad's building choices and how he painted a "red" front door. We'd laugh a moment and then Ponder always gave an open invite to stop by his home for a visit. It's so sad, my friend is gone, I'll miss seeing him enjoy the home daddy built... but oh the joy my dear friend is having now surrounded by everlasting songs of joy and he lives in another home. It's a glorious mansion in Glory land built by the Master Carpenter's hand. Praise the Lord! Heavenly Father's merciful lovingkindnesses is the ultimate home sweet home.
